Presented by Bo Wandschneider, Chief Information Officer, University of Toronto
May 3, 2019

“I would say, in a word, that the team I have is awesome! It is probably one of the most skilled and dedicated teams I’ve ever had at the University of Toronto.”

Cathy Eberts
Executive Director
Enterprise Applications and Solutions Integration
Information Technology
Services

“This strategic planning exercise, in the breadth of its consulting, engagement, analysis and synthesis, has been a valuable process in understanding the role IT plays in the life of the University and its community.”

Marden Paul

Director

Planning, Governance and Assessment

Information Technology Services

“It’s not really about just the immediate team you work with, it’s not even about the department you work in, in the end, we all play for team UofT.”

Zoran Piljevic

Director

Information and Instructional
Technology Services

University of Toronto Scarborough

“If we’re more transparent, we can build trust and we can do a lot more than we can do individually. The sum of the whole is much more than the sum of the individual parts.”

Bo Wandschneider
Chief Information Officer

- Digitalization of the University's core administrative systems focused on process reengineering (including assessment, redesign and implementation of recommendations).
- Create a culture of evidence-based (data driven) decision-making and information flow.
- Enable a secure computing environment and protected management of information.
- Leverage alternative service delivery models that can deliver enhanced security, increased agility, improved return on investment (ROI) and more flexible solutions.
- Rationalize, standardize and simplify systems and services across the three campuses.

Example: Modernise and extend the Administrative Management Systems (AMS), including HR Talent Management Suite, Finance and Research systems
